

The Ned the Dead Show

Bringing Local TV Back From the Grave!
Premieres Saturday March 28th on WACY 32

The Ned the Dead Show breathes new life into an almost forgotten form of regionally produced television. For 25 years, Ned the Dead (Steve Brenzel) has been entertaining TV viewers with his off-the-wall antics and often bizarre sense of humor.

Now Ned and his quirky sidekick Doc Moreau (Randy Moreau) are back and better than ever. On Saturday March 28th, Chiller Theater becomes The Ned the Dead Show. The premiere will bring many changes, but loyal fans will still find the cult films and hilarious comedy they've grown to love.

One of the biggest changes is the addition of a virtual 3-D set, bringing the actual Chiller Theater to life for the very first time.

Fans can also look for new characters joining the cast, as well as new segments. That includes Sconniewood, which features local independent short films.

The media is invited to cover the launch of this exciting local programming. We believe there is a demand for more personal relatable television in this market.
